

Crown's re-location accord revealed

By JOHN CURRY
Post Staff Writer

A re-location plan for many of the tenants of the Crown Colony Apartments on Imperial Way was announced to the Daly City City Council Monday night, clearing the way for final approval of the 920-unit complex into condominiums.

The council was pleased with the re-location agreement, which before the city Planning Commission Jan. 3 had emerged as the main point of contention between the developer, Cadillac-Fairview Homes West of Newport Beach and the Crown Colony Tenants Association, the latter claiming the Cadillac-Fairview offer of two months' rent to find other quarters wasn't enough to pay moving costs.

But when Charles Weinstein, spokesman for the tenants, presented a six-point plan he and Tenants Association President Terry Grube had worked out last week with Cadillac-Fairview executives David B. Kuhn and Ron Grudzinski, the council broke into smiles.

"I'm impressed with the Tenants Association," Councilman William Tucker enthused. "They're a very persistent group."

What the council missed out on by settlement of the issue was the prospect of having to referee and decide on how to handle the largest single uprooting of residents in the city's history in its first-ever condominium conversion.

The Planning Commission listened to 4½ hours of sometimes bitter arguments over the conversion plan Jan. 3 before approving the use permit, parking requirement variance, subdivision map and environmental assessment report strictly on its legal merits, not on its emotional and political possibilities.

The City Council was to do that. The planners suggested two months' rent plus $10 per month of continuous residence be paid each tenant not buying a Crown Colony unit and being forced to move.

The agreement presented Monday night and incorporated into the conditions provide for $20 per month of continuous occupancy until Oct. 12, 1979, up to a maximum of $1,500, plus all refundable and non-refundable deposits to be returned, except in cases of willful damage to units or rental arrears.

That's close to what the Tenants Association had demanded earlier and considerably more than the Planning Commission compromise, it was noted.

Weinstein told the council that Cadillac-Fairview had agreed not to tack the re-location costs onto the price of the units when they were sold.

One of the developer's arguments earlier had been that too liberal re-location costs would mean that those purchasing their units would be paying the moving costs of those who didn't. Cadillac-Fairview didn't consider that fair.

If Cadillac-Fairview can stay on its announced schedule and offer the first units for sale in March, the asking prices for present residents would range from $41,335 for studio apartments to $89,955 for two-bedroom and den units, according to the developer's figures. The asking price to the general public not now residents would be 10 percent higher. Delays in the conversion also could drive prices up, the developer has stated.—MORE—

"The 129 conditions on this are the most I've ever seen on top of an ordinance," Kuhn, Cadillac-Fairview vice-president, commented to the council. But he added, he has learned that the Daly City ordinance, adopted last year, now is being used by a Continuing Education of the Bar as a model ordinance for teaching purposes and is being studied by other cities.

Among the conditions are a $1.4 million bond to assure 140 more parking spaces, still nearly 500 short of what would be required under the present ordinance, but well beyond what the requirements were when Crown Colony was built in 1970, re-carpeting of walls and floors and new carpets and padding for sound-proofing, repair of all structural and plumbing troubles, replacement of appliances where needed, and roof alterations to prevent "ponding" of water during rainy spells.

Financing plans allowing for down payments of as little as 5 percent also will be offered to present residents, Cadillac-Fairview has announced.

Weinstein Monday night told the council that despite the Tenants Association's strong opposition to the conversion after it was announced last summer, it was decided it was best to proceed with it.

"The choice seems to be to convert Crown Colony to condominiums or let it deteriorate, because it's uneconomical to maintain in fine condition. The Planning Commission conditions resolved most of the problems, and we'll submit a financial analysis of the (conversion) budget to the state Department of Real Estate (which must confirm any conversion)."

As for an ongoing crime problem at the complex, with daytime thefts from autos and lockers allegedly on the rise, Weinstein said Cadillac-Fairview has worked out a plan to combat that, too.

Neil Spoda, another Crown Colony tenant, asked about eligibility under the city's low-cost loans for single-family housing rehabilitation, but City Planner Robert-Joe Vasquez replied that these have been earmarked for low-income families and Crown Colony residents probably wouldn't qualify, nor would their condominiums.

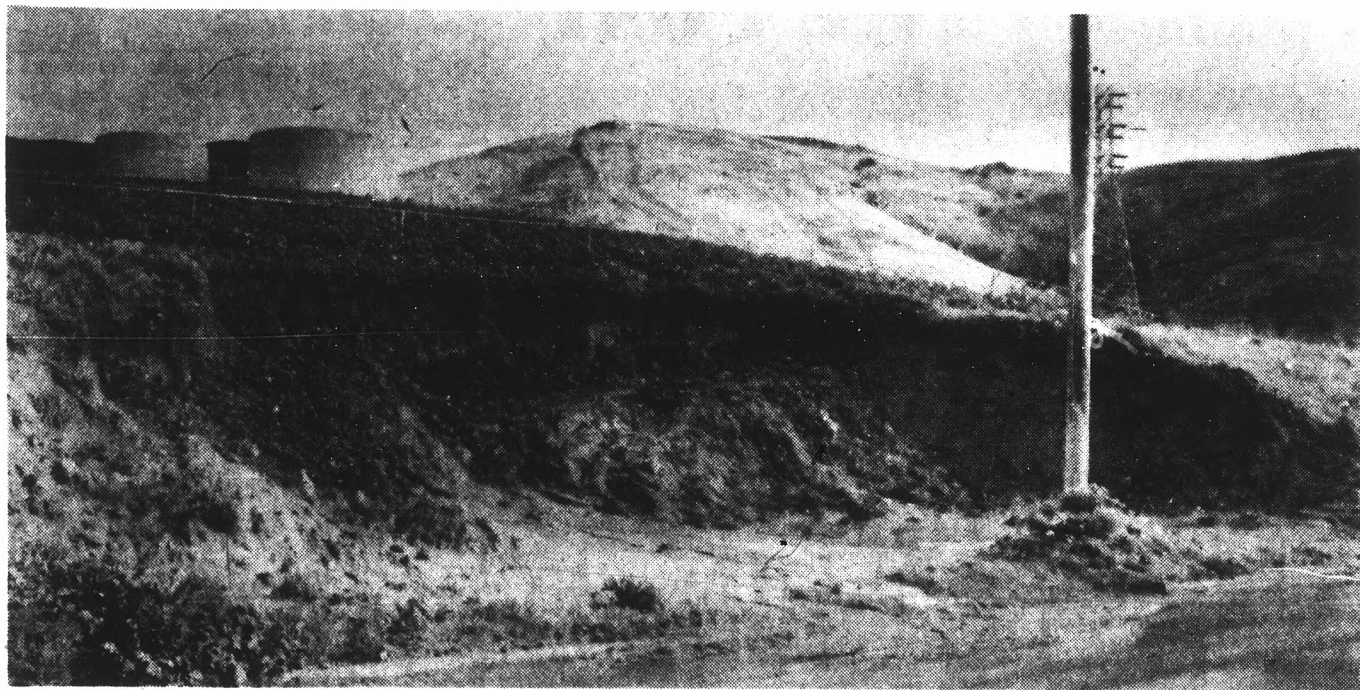

Estimates have varied widely on how many present Crown Colony tenants would be willing to buy their units or another in the complex. One resident, Perky Callahan, who said she had resided at the Crown Colony since early 1975, told the council that despite making "a good salary for a woman," she had learned Monday that she didn't qualify for a loan to buy her unit.

Weinstein said cases like this are common, which is why many Crown Colony tenants will have to move. He warned the council that he feels it is "setting a precedent" with this conversion, to the detriment of renters who can't afford to buy in today's inflated housing market.

"There's nothing on the boards here (in new apartment construction) and rental units are very hard to find now," he said, and asked the council to "look into more rental housing."

After the unanimous council vote, City Attorney Albert Polonsky emphasized that "This approval is not a blueprint for any future condominium conversions. Planning Commission Chairman Ed O'Donnell made that very clear."

The Crown Colony is the city's second-largest apartment complex under a single ownership, behind only the 3,000-unit Westlake apartments.

WAITING FOR A BUILDING

This 4,500-square-foot plot of land in Colma, on the north side of Hillside Boulevard and opposite Evergreen Drive in South San Francisco, is the object of a lot of attention by its South San Francisco Citizens Action League neighbors these days. It's owned by Colma Town Councilman Rich Valleria, who, after unsuccessful attempts to get South San Francisco sewer hookups for a single-family home and later a fourplex there, now wants to build a warehouse that doesn't require any hookups. The CAL argued against the warehouse last week and likely will do so again when the Colma Town Council meets in special session on the subject at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Town Hall. Valleria says he wants a re-zoning to commercial to allow him use of the land. The CAL charges this would be spot zoning and might set a bad precedent for the open area between Evergreen and Holy Cross Cemetery. In the meantime, the South San Francisco City Council will have a sewer hookup application before it tonight from Leo Fratessa, who says he would buy the property and build a duplex there if the hookup was approved.

Call for donations for lunch

The annual Daly City Senior Citizens Luncheon has been set this year for Feb. 23 at the Westlake Community Center, and the call has gone out for donations to fund the affair, expected to draw some 500 persons.

The luncheon traditionally has been paid for by local business people and co-sponsored by the city of Daly City, though not funded by the city.

The request for donations, however, was by Mayor Victor G. Kyriakis, who has asked that checks, payable to "Senior Citizens Luncheon," be sent to him at his Civic Center office, Sullivan Avenue and 90th Street.

Two incumbents

5 candidates eye April 8 election

Five potential candidates have taken out nomination papers for the Daly City City Council election April 8.

They include incumbents Anthony Giammona and Albert Teglia and challengers Rick Walsh, Harry Smith and Jerry Love.

Giammona, athletic director at Westmoor High School, would be seeking his fourth elected four-year term. He was appointed in 1966 to fill a vacancy and was elected in 1968, 1972 and 1976.

Teglia, operations manager of the San Mateo Union High School District, is seeking his second four-year term.

Walsh is transportation revenue supervisor of the San Francisco Municipal Railway. Smith is a local businessman. Love, a power transmission engineer, has been active with the Serramonte Homeowners Association.

All the potential candidates took their papers out last Thursday, but none had been returned as of Tuesday.

Also up for election in Daly City in April are the city clerk and part-time city treasurer posts.

Both incumbents have taken out papers but there are no challengers yet to either.

Daly City's council approves grant plan

With comparatively little discussion and only one final change, the Daly City City Council Monday night approved its $884,000 federal Community Development Block Grant program for the 1980-81 fiscal year.

The approval ended three months of intensive study and controversy over how to divide up the funding, given to the city for the sixth year for various civic and community projects. Few of the 20 categories were given all they asked for in the recommendations of the 19-member CDBG Citizens Advisory Committee and the staff, but some changes were made as a result of arguments at the public hearing Jan. 7.

On Councilman Albert Teglia's motion, the last change Monday was transfer of $5,000 from the $115,000 "land banking" fund to augment the $10,000 allocated to the Anti-Crime League of Daly City. ACL leaders had complained loudly last week that their request for $20,000 had been the bare minimum and that they couldn't continue their crime prevention activities at present levels without it.

Not winning approval were suggestions by councilmen William Schumacher and James Tucker. Schumacher asked that the $35,000 allocated to the Community Services Center for job placement and development specialists be deleted and the money transferred to land banking, a new plan under which the city would buy vacant land as it could afford it for future low- and moderate-income housing.

Tucker sought to have a $5,000 appropriation for a senior citizen escort service study by the Crocker Neighborhood Association deleted, saying "We need action. This type of thing has been over-studied now." He did win approval of having a report back on the study within 60 days.

The largest chunk of the money, $340,000, is earmarked for low- and moderate-income housing rehabilitation projects directed by the city.

Whether it was timed that way, he didn't say, but Mayor Victor G. Kyriakis announced two new appointments to the CDBG Citizens Advisory Committee, both from the Bayshore area of the city, Edo Timalu, pastor of the Samoan Congregational Church of Jesus, and Joseph Gomez, retired, 154 Rio Verde St.

complaining that their area had no representatives on the committee, but had the largest percentage of low-income residents of any in the city. The letter was signed by William H. Bencken and Frank Estrada.

In other business the council

Approved raising the limit on housing rehabilitation re-roofing loans to $20,000 from $15,000 to offset inflation.

Okayed parking zone and stop sign changes in several places, on the recommendation of the Traffic Committee, but referred back to staff one request for unlimited instead of two-hour parking and preferential permits for residents at East Market and County streets.

Officially removed Harold Wotford from the city History, Arts and Science Commission because he has been unable to attend meetings, and replace him with Mrs. Letia Coffman, manager of a Crocker Bank branch on Southgate Avenue.

Approved a zone change from single-family to duplex for a home at 608 Price St. to allow alterations for an in-laws apartment on the lower floor.

Approved a zone change and minor subdivision on Hill Street just north of Washington Street from multi-family residential to heavy commercial to allow plumbing and electrical contractors warehouse and office space.

Gave the green light to the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce to use $3,000 of its appropriation from the city to sponsor the Miss Daly City pageant, part of the annual county Fair and Floral Fiesta hoopla.

From Jefferson district

City to purchase site

Now that the impact of an inverse condemnation lawsuit over Olympia School has sunk in, the Daly City City Council Monday night decided it would go ahead with the purchase of the Abraham Lincoln school site from the Jefferson Elementary School District.

A letter of intent will be presented to the JESD Board of Trustees at its next meeting next Wednesday, with the official city offer to buy the property next to Westlake Park for recreational purposes and for a senior citizen center.

The letter of intent was to go to the school trustees last Wednesday, but was held up when the city learned just that afternoon that it was being sued for $885,000 plus damages by the school district for allegedly destroying the value of the Olympia School site by its own condemnation suit in December.

The City Council met in closed executive session for about an hour before the public meeting Monday night. Mayor Victor G. Kyriakis announced later that "The city would prefer these items be kept separate." Councilman William Schumacher said he concurred and that "Perhaps down the road we can iron that lawsuit out."

The Abraham Lincoln site has been sought for some time by the city, which secured a promise of half the funding for it, over $600,000, this fall by Mrs. Thelma Doelger, widow of builder Henry Doelger, who built most of Westlake during the post-war housing boom. The school buildings would become the Doelger Community Center.

The city also has been after 17,000 square feet of the playground area at Olympia for a park, but the school district has said it preferred to sell the entire site at once. The lawsuit filed in Superior Court last week drove the point home forcefully. The $885,000 figure is the appraised value of the site, the district claiming the city's condemnation suit has driven off potential buyers.

Both schools were closed by the district in recent years because of declining enrollment and put up for sale early this year.

Hillside Homeowners group plans its 24th annual installation dinner

New officers will be installed at the 24th annual installation and dinner dance of the Hillside Homeowners Improvement Association of Daly City, March 1 at the Italian American Social Club, 25 Russia St., San Francisco.

Deadline for obtaining tickets is

Feb. 16. Further information may be obtained by calling Chairwoman Marie Loretta, 756-2659.

The evening will start with a cocktail hour at 7, with dinner at 8, the installation at 9:30 and dancing from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. The theme will be The Big Band Era.

Louanne Heath

The Mary's Help Hospital guild board will be meeting one half hour earlier than usual this Friday so that members may have the opportunity to hear noted plastic surgeon Dr. Fred Suess and still cover all the items on a very long agenda.

Dr. Suess will be answering questions about plastic and reconstructive surgery and he will show slides and present an insight into the ever growing field.

Luncheon, costing $2 per person will be served at 1:30 p.m. in the cafeteria.

Hard as it is to believe, midst all the cold wind and rain, it is time to begin thinking about that spring wardrobe.

The annual Westlake Catholic Women's fashion show and luncheon is well into the planning stage and Mrs. Rita Quinn, who will chair the 26th edition of the affair, has announced that this year the theme will be "A Bouquet of Fashion" and the beneficiary of the event will be the Our Lady of Mercy youth program.

In keeping with long tradition, the show will be held in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. The date will February 9.

Tickets, costing $11 per person, will be sold on Saturday, Jan. 26 between the hours of 10 a.m. and noon in the parish hall at Our Lady of Mercy.

The driving wind and rain over the past weekend found many Daly City people away from the warmth of their homes.

Young Kim Anderson of St. Francis Square area found himself stranded in the Lake Tahoe region where power outages and highway conditions made the vacation land less than paradise.

Conditions were no better in Lake County, where the Jay Guerreros of Serramonte have a vacation home.

Driving rain and gale force winds made staying indoors the best idea for adults and children.

When winter strikes with its full force, a bit of the weekend, it helps to be young, for it takes an awful lot to diminish the spirit of fun in the pre-teen crowd.

Umbrellas turned inside out and raincoats whipping around, booted legs seem like just one more indication that this was a special event and so more than half a dozen 10-year-old girls scurried through the wet to help Vanessa Wallace celebrate her birthday.

On a less joyous journey, localites Dr. and Mrs. Troy Daniels, Mrs. Marie Mackinnon and Mr. and Mrs. John McVeigh trekked down ramswep Interstate 280 to attend a memorial service for Ellis Shook, who passed away this past week in Sacramento.

Home from a holiday visit to their parents in Bakersfield are Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Yale of Colma.

The Yales found Bakersfield no warmer than the Bay Area this time of year and even reported that there seemed to be many more cases of assorted "viruses" in the valley than here.

Starting the new year off with a plethora of guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morford, who welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Scott Schaeffer of San Pablo, Don Ortega and Deborah Terry of San Jose and Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Wagstaff of Saratoga.

Expected within days at the Morford home is Mark Terry and his bride, Irene, who are arriving in the United States from Germany. Terry has been stationed in Europe for the last two years while he served in the Army.

Plaza conversion to condos asked

The developer of the Park Plaza apartments in San Bruno has filed an application with the city to convert all 48 units to condominiums.

Frank A. Borges, a consultant to the developer, said Thursday that tenants will be notified around Feb. 1.

Filed Jan. 2, the application is the second in line behind the 1,296-unit Shelter Creek apartments, whose developer, W. Lewis "Pete" Douglas Jr., applied for conversion last July.

Both of those conversions hinge upon resolution of the complicated issue of which condominium conversion ordinance is in effect.

The City Council voted 3-2 Tuesday to order the city clerk to certify a version of the ordinance which would prevent any conversions before the housing element of the city's general plan is updated — a process estimated to take six months.

But City Clerk Terri Rasmussen has certified a different version of the ordinance, which would allow conversions to begin immediately after developers obtain city approval, since the city's moratorium on conversions expired this week.

Asked Thursday under which condominium ordinance the city is operating, Planning and Building Director Juan Garcia paused a long time and said, "I'd rather not answer that question."

However, City Manager Gerald Minford reported at the last council meeting that the city is continuing to review applications.

Garcia said Thursday his department has not determined if Shelter Creek's or Park Plaza's application for conversion is complete.

Borges, hired by Highsmith Realty of Millbrae to convert the Park Plaza apartments, said the conversion application submitted to the city is "an application of excellence" that provides many benefits for tenants in addition to those required in the condominium conversion ordinance.

Among those benefits, Borges said, are a relocation program, relocation assistance payments, extended term leases for seniors and the handicapped, and a plan to set aside about four or five units as "investor units" that would change ownership but would continue to be rented out.

Borges said his firm is involved in only "high quality" projects. "We don't handle junk," he noted.

TRAFFIC CHAOS IN BURLINGAME

This was the scene a block south of Broadway on California Drive just before 8 a.m. Friday. Police said a car going north on California and a car being driven eastbound from Carmelita Drive collided in the intersection. One overturned, striking autos parked in the adjacent parking lot along the railroad track, turning one of them over. In all, seven vehicles were involved. Police reported no injuries.

Growers' leader:

Let us get on with the job of producing

By GEORGE GOLDING
Post Staff Writer

"We were environmentalists before the word was invented," says Stephen Elmore.

"We live in it, we work in it, we try to improve it, but a lot of the things we've done have been misunderstood."

Elmore, newly elected president of the Council of California Growers, was talking about "we farmers."

He ships onions from his farm near the Mexican border to be packaged at Gilroy, so they can be sold in supermarkets in San Mateo.

He also raises melons, some cotton, garlic, sugar beets and alfalfa, and spends a lot of time talking about farmers.

The reason, he says, is that there seems to be a trend to increase regulation and control and limitations to the point where "it may be against the law to farm in California."

In San Mateo for an executive board meeting of the council, Elmore commented that "if all these regulations continue, there will be a lot less food to go around."

"There may be enough for the United States, but we farmers export some $20 billion worth of foodstuffs each year to people in other countries."

"If they don't allow us to use pesticides and herbicides," he said, "somebody is going to have to figure out what to do with the one-third of the world's people who are going to starve."

"Even among the lesser amount of food available," he said, "the quality is not going to be the same."

"People won't buy wormy corn or apples. They want fresh green vegetables."

"If they want that quality, we've got to be able to control or eliminate insects and pests, and promote growth."

"We are producing more and more food on less and less land, because there is less, because they keep paying it over with freeways and airports and building houses on flat land."

"We use herbicides and pesticides and labor-saving machines to do the job, not because it makes the work more profitable, because it doesn't, but to provide the crops that the public demands."

"We are consumers too, as well as farmers. For example, are consumers of oil and other energy sources, and are currently feeling the pinch just as much as homeowners."

Stephen Elmore

"I was talking to a field work contractor just the other day," said Elmore, "and he now includes in his contracts a 17 percent escalation clause tied to the price of diesel for his tractors."

"The price of diesel fuel doubled in the past year and that increase is going to be reflected in the price of tomatoes and carrots and lettuce."

"People also tend to forget," he said, "that it not only takes fuel to plant and harvest the crops, it takes fuel to haul them to market."

Since Elmore's home base is the Imperial Valley, with its early growing season, much of his produce goes to East Coast markets.

Last year, the price of transporting food to the East Coast by truck quickly became higher than the total of all other costs related to the crops before they went onto trucks.

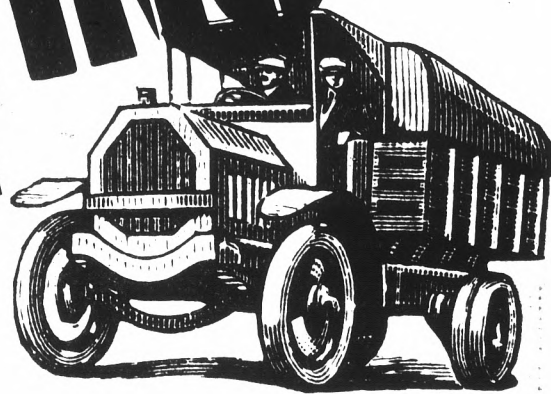

"The market went to hell," he said. "Prices shot up because of the high cost of trucking, which shot up because of the high cost of fuel."

Food buyers may see more of that domino price hiking as the fuel crunch continues, Elmore noted.

The Council of California Growers includes some 2,800 members, scattered from Arcata to Brawley, and includes individual farmers, farm groups and agribusinesses.

The group's role, he said, is to bring the farmers' word to non-farmers, and to help growers of all kinds of food products relate to the people using those products.

Commissioner of Publicity
Serramonte High School

Class of the month will be starting up again, and posters will be limited to the South Mall. Possible activities include a pie-eating contest between class officers.

The Snack Shop at Serramonte is open again during lunch. The store is run by Executive Board members. The shop sells M&M's, Milky Ways, Snickers, Licorice and the like.

The next scheduled assembly for Serramonte is Feb. 21, a Light and Sound show. A new assembly policy is likely to go into effect which will not allow anyone to leave an assembly once they have entered the auditorium.

Multi-Ethnic Day at Serramonte will be April 17. Multi-Ethnic Day is a day set aside for different ethnic groups to set up booths in the mall with different foods, articles and customs.

On Jan. 18 there will be a junior-senior dance from 8 to midnight. That's this Friday — so don't miss it! The D.J. will be Dr. Funk. Cost is $2.50 in advance and $3 at the door.

Commencing Jan. 8, Mrs. Ridgley, the para-professional health aide, will be in the nurse's office at Serramonte from 8:30 to 12:15. The district nurse, Mrs. Colbert, will be at Serramonte every Friday.

The first semester is almost over, with only a couple of weeks left

Dolphins in Olympics

For the first time in its three-year history, the Daly City Dolphins swim team sent four swimmers to the Junior Olympics in Santa Rosa in early January.

Bringing home a bronze medal to Daly City was Victor Wales, 10, the most successful of the four. Victor posted the second fastest time in the trials of the 50 Fly and placed third in the finals.

He also qualified sixth in the 50 Free and placed fourth in the finals and qualified for seventh in the 50 Back, placing fifth.

All of Victor's times were Pacific Association reportable times and ranked him in the top 10 in Northern California and Nevada for those events.

Westmoor's Brett Beedle missed making the finals by three tenths of a second and placed 13th in the 100 Breast. Also placing 13th was Edgar Borja, whose time of 2:02.23 in the 200 Fly was off his best time of 1:59.30. Edgar also placed 22nd in the 200 Free in 1:51, and 21st in the 1650.

Oceana's Doug Dawkins Jr. missed finals in the 500 Free by five tenths of a second but bested 18 Junior Olympics qualifiers.

More than 2,000 participants attended.

And Daly City boy or girl 6 to 18 who is interested in joining can try out at the Westmoor Pool daily from 4 to 4:30 p.m.

We'll never promote our salons by using ridiculous before-and-after photos.

We know, and you certainly feel, the kind of image such ads convey. The implications are that you're grossly overweight, and ought to be ashamed, and that no one will love you if you aren't thin. Hollywood-type lives inevitably await those who become slinky and svelte. Thinning guarantees happiness.

That just isn't the real world. Some people do need to lose huge amounts of weight, but in that case their health is more at issue than their love lives. Not everyone will be gorgeous when they're thin. You may, or may not, find the yellow brick road after successfully completing your program.

What then, since we're neither selling fantasies nor trying to hype the unconscious, do we have to offer that will attract you as a customer? The answer to this has two parts, one about figure salons in general, the other about our salon in particular.

There are lots of good reasons to enroll in a figure program. You don't have to be the size of a dirigible. Most people aren't. Yet it is fair to say that most of us could stand to shed a few pounds. Vanity is one reason, and we're not above admitting that it plays a part. Why shouldn't it? Clothes fit and feel better when you've reached your best proportions. If you're expanding, your wardrobe has to as well, and that gets expensive. Rigorous exercise is great, but it won't necessarily shape you, and it usually requires a lot of time. Motives vary in the quest for leaner, toned bodies, yet one undeniable beneficiary is your health.

Now it's time to tell you why, of all available salons, you should choose ours. Quite simply, we think we've assembled the most appealing package. Our salons are not gym-like. They're carpeted, decorated, comfortable. Programs are truly individualized, with sessions scheduled at your convenience, not ours. We use no shots or pills. We offer proven, reliable nutritional guidance. You never have to disrobe. Honest. We've accomplished that by selecting special equipment that does the work, so you don't have to. (That way we can be a brief oasis in your busy day without disrupting it.) We also offer healthful, luxurious facials. To our knowledge there's no other salon that does.

In all, we've created the total salon, offering the proper treatment for every part of your body. For every woman who's ever been dissatisfied with a figure salon, or those who have put off going to one because they were so unappealing. For you.

Views on busing

Find it hard to get to school now that the Jefferson Union High School District is not providing buses?

Now is your chance to give input into the problem of transportation to and from Serramonte High School for your student.

Earl Moore (SanTrans transportation manager), will address the Serramonte PTSA Jan. 17 at 8 p.m. in the faculty room.

Parents and students of Serramonte High School can attend.

A short PTSA meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Al Campbell, acting principal of the school, and an administrator from the district office also will be present.

Resilient Rams top Regents

By MIKE FICHER

With only seconds remaining in the third quarter, Derrick Johnson hurriedly dribbled the basketball the length of the court and sliced between two Serramonte High players for a short jump shot.

But the Westmoor High star didn't see Regent center Curtis Alexander stationed in his path. Whistle, offensive foul and, most significantly, Johnson's fifth foul of the game.

The silence on the Westmoor bench was deafening. Although Johnson had experienced his poorest shooting game of the year, connecting on only 2 of 11 field goal attempts for a grand total of 4 points, the Rams knew they were in trouble. "Man, you know, we really thought we were going to lose when Derrick fouled out," forward Keith Dowdell said.

"We really thought we'd fall apart," forward Ed Conlan said.

Westmoor did not lose nor did it fall apart, although it did have a few anxious moments in the hectic fourth quarter. The Rams held on without their standout guard, showing remarkable resilience in defeating the pesky Regents 57-50 Friday in a crucial North Peninsula League clash.

The Rams held a still comfortable 45-37 advantage when Johnson was disqualified, but Westmoor realized it would be a struggle, the Regents having already disassembled a 24-9 lead in the second quarter.

Serramonte, buoyed by Johnson's absence, scored the first three baskets of the fourth quarter to pull within two points.

Dowdell's jumper upped the lead to four, but Regent guard Jeff Jones quickly cut it to one with a three-point play.

With the opportunities to take the lead, the result of a Ram turnover and a one-and-one free throw miss, the Regents were unable to capitalize.

The two teams exchanged field goals to leave the score at 49-48. Although still lagging on the ropes emotionally, Westmoor managed to pull out and take charge of the fiercely contested, often physical, clash.

Serramonte's full-court press had taken its toll on the Rams, who, lacking the sure ballhandling of Johnson, made several turnovers resulting in offensive opportunities for the Regents. But Westmoor stopped making the errant pass, avoided a devastating double-team tactic and broke the Regents' press.

Dowdell, the Rams' leading scorer with 16 points, increased the Ram lead to 51-48 with a press-breaking layup. With 1:20 left, Conlan tallied probably the most significant basket of the game, grabbing a rebound and putting it back in to up the advantage to five. That seemed to finally take the wind out of the furious Regent rally.

Westmoor coach Tony Giammona, whose club now sports a 3-0 NPL mark and a seven-game winning streak, noted that Conlan, Dowdell, and center Troy Williams took up the slack for Johnson in the final period. "I think our front three men just did a super job on the boards in the last quarter," he said. "I think that was the difference."

Dowdell agreed. "Troy's rebounding (11), Eddie's rebounding (7), the fast breaks — that was it right there. "They are a fast team, you know. I guess height really doesn't bother them. They play like a regular, normal team with speed."

"I was really proud of the way the kids came back," Serramonte Coach Rick Warne said. "This type of game is really a tough one to lose."

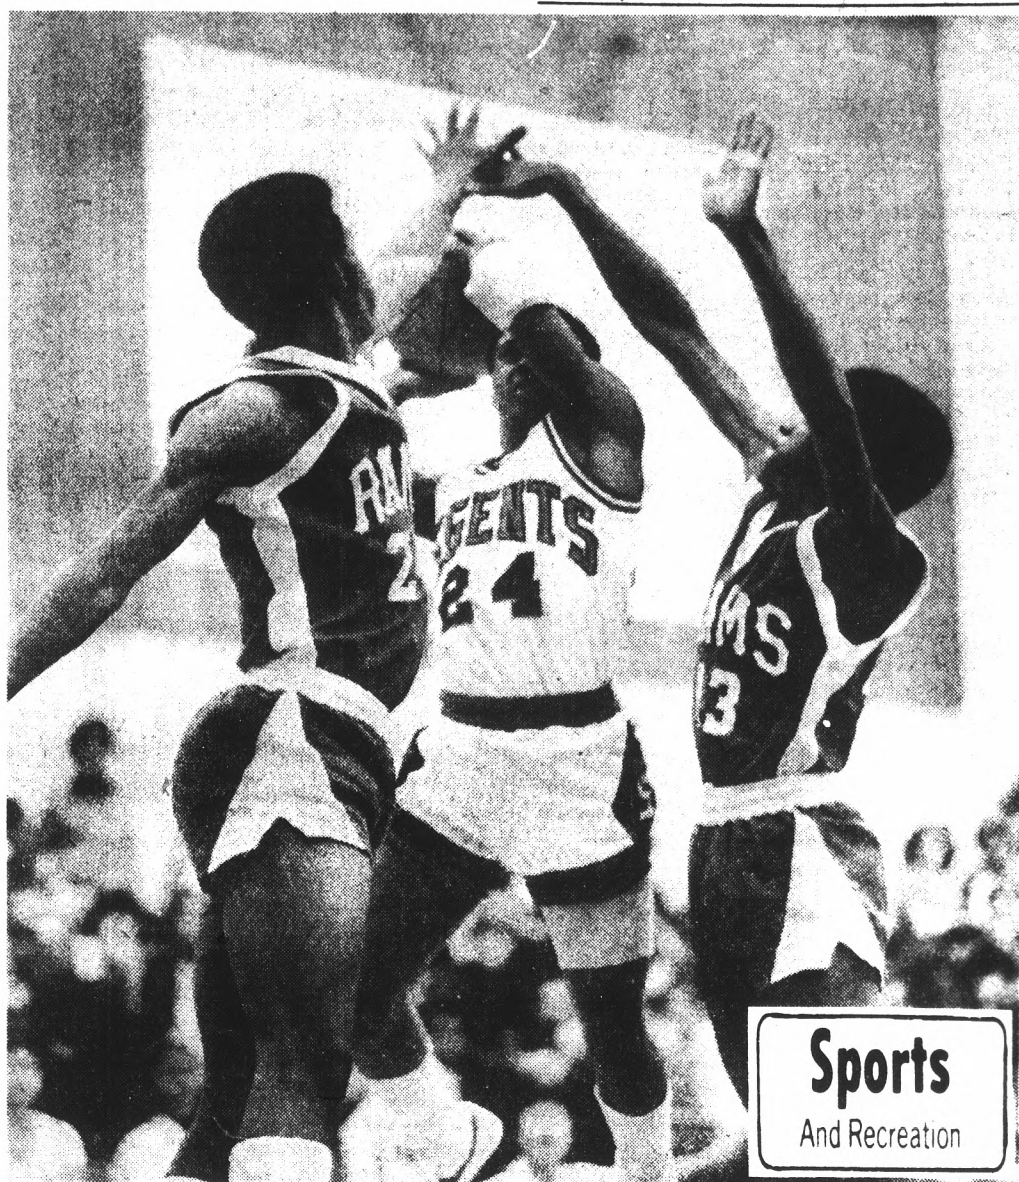

Giammona noted that the Regents' loss of forward Darryl Williams, who was ejected for fighting in the third quarter, had an effect on the game's outcome.

"They missed Darryl Williams when he was ejected," he said. "That really hurt them, 'cause he's a good ballplayer. He makes things happen."

1980: The Year of the Coast

By ARVILLE FINACOM

Among Californians, 1980 may be remembered as "The Year of the Coast."

Certainly it will be a year in which many people in the state will take a closer look at the nearly 1,000-mile edge of the continent that marks the state's western boundary.

Back in 1972, citizens in California voted Proposition 20, "The Coastal Initiative," into law. Four years later, the Legislature passed what is called "The Coastal Act of 1976," incorporating the features of the earlier people's initiative into a law with language designed to stand securely against close legal scrutiny.

When California voters opted for Prop 20, it was with two thoughts in mind. One was to preserve what was left of the natural coastline from indiscriminate development. The second was to insure continued and increased public access to the shoreline.

The Coastal Act of 1976 expanded these two goals into five. The first still deals with "protection, maintenance and restoration, if at all possible, of natural coastal resources."

The second takes into account "orderly and balanced utilization" of these resources, taking into full account human social and economic needs, while the third stresses public access.

Number four takes into consideration development along the coast of "ocean-dependent facilities" and five is perhaps the most far reaching. It states simply, "establish local initiative and cooperation in all planning."

Tstand the kinds of development opposition ranged against them.

Probably a definition of "coastal zone" is appropriate here. According to law, the coastal zone is an area extending three miles seaward along the entire coast of California and inland generally, 1,000 yards, a little less than 2/3 of a mile.

In significant coastal estuarine habitats and recreational areas, the zone extends inland to "the first major ridge line or five miles, whichever is less." Thus, along the San Mateo County coast near Pacifica the strip is narrow, widening as it travels southward to its full eight-mile width at Half Moon Bay and beyond.

Highest priority in land use/development is "preservation and protection of environmentally sensitive habitats and prime agricultural land." Second priority is "coastal dependent development." The limiting term here is "coastal" which implies "ocean" rather than simply "water-dependent."

Harbor facilities for a fishing fleet would probably fit the definition; marinas for pleasure craft might not.

Under the third priority, "public recreation, and visitor serving facilities," construction of a marina might be considered legitimate. But implications for highway widening and mass transit as well as housing for those providing the services remain imponderables. Anyone who's tried to get in or out of Half Moon Bay during the annual Pumpkin Festival understands these difficulties.

It doesn't take much study to see that the plan, in setting its legally mandated priorities, experiences the same difficulties and problems of any city or regional "master" plan. How can expansion be permitted yet habitat integrity maintained? New jobs mean additional housing; but additional housing can mean additional job development. And with both additional jobs and housing, what public works, services and facilities will be needed?

Members of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors are interested in citizen reaction to the plan. Address comments to any or all of them care of the County Government Center, Redwood City, 94063.

But before you respond, take a trip along the coast. The 50-mile drive from Daly City down Highway 1 to the Santa Cruz County line takes one through a variety of coastal habitats. Rocky shores are perhaps predominant, but there are also coastal strands and estuarine marshes.

Our county's coast is rich in agricultural land, abundantly producing vegetables and flowers. Some vegetables, like brussel sprouts and artichokes, are impossible to grow away from the cool sea fog which blankets the coast much of the time in summer.

Perhaps it will take you several trips to see it all. Don't just keep driving. Take time to stop and watch the birds along the long flat beach at Sharp Park. Talk to the fisherfolk on Pacifica's Municipal pier. Watch the winter surfers catch the curling waves at Linda Mar. Marvel at the steep and rugged beauty of Devil's Slide. Watch the small planes at Half Moon Bay. Take a flight for an interesting view of the area. Go aboard a fishing or whale watching cruise at Princeton Harbor and travel out to sea.

The coast looks different from the deck of a boat bobbing in the offshore swells. Explore the variety of tidepool life at Fitzgerald Marine Reserve. Walk the sands at Dunes or Francis beaches. Count the agates among the pebbles at Pebble Beach or sit on the rocks near Pescadero.

Go inland to see the wintering wildfowl in the lush wetlands along Pescadero and Butano Creeks. See them, too, along San Gregorio's meandering channel. Finish your trip at Ano Nuevo State Park where rangers lead small groups of visitors to the brink of the bluffs to observe the elephant seals who call our county home several months each year.

Some say the Coastal Act of 1976 contributes to environmental elitism. I see it, rather, as a guarantee of a take-your-turn environmental philosophy which will permit anyone who wishes now and in the future to travel.

A look into teachings of the Koran

There is no God but Allah; and Mohammad is his prophet!

Koran: Sura 46

With Americans being held hostage in Iran and with Muslims in Afghanistan fighting with the mighty Russian army, the world seems suddenly aware of the various nations of Mohammedans and of the religion that prompts them to act as they do.

For all the followers of Mohammed the Koran, supplemented by the Hadith-traditions, is the word of God. Indeed, in all of the Koran except the first Sura, which is a prayer, and a few messages that were spoken by Mohammad, the speaker is reputed to be God himself and the lines of the Koran are said to be a transcript of those found in a book that is kept in heaven and there can be no argument about the subjects they treat or even about the choice of words.

This is explained in Sura 43: "We have made it an Arabic Koran that ye may understand: And it is a transcript of the archetypal book kept by us; it is lofty, filled with wisdom."

Mohammedans believe the words of the heavenly book were delivered to their prophet by an individual known as the Spirit, and as the Great Spirit and as Gabriel.

Because of the arrangement or lack of arrangement of the chapters, which are called Suras, the Koran seems confusing to many Western readers.

To them it seems to contain an inconsistent theology that changes from exhortations to mercy towards the infidels on one hand, to belligerence on the other. This is illustrated by citing a few lines from the 74th Sura and a few from the 47th:

"O Thou, Enraptured in Thy mantle!
Arise and warn!
Thy Lord — magnify Him
Thy raiment — purify it
The abomination flee it
And bestow not favors that Thou mayest receive again with increase;
And for Thy Lord wait Thou patiently."

Sura XLXXIV

A change of tone is seen in Sura 47:

Samuel Chandler

"When ye encounter the infidels strike off their heads 'til ye have made a great slaughter among them, and of the rest make fast the fetters."

Some scholars believe such charges were directed towards the soldiers of Mohammed's day who were conquering the cities of the Middle East. Nevertheless, such words were shouted by Muslims that killed thousands of Christians and people of the Orient as they marched on lands far away from the prophet's home.

'King' has seizures

By DR. DAVID R. BARNETT

Question:
My brother has a Lab Retriever which he inherited from a neighbor who moved away.

"King" is 3 years old and in the last couple of months has had epileptic seizures of short duration. When the seizures hit him he trembles and his legs collapse and he spread-eagles on the floor in an entirely helpless way. In a few minutes he recovers and acts normal again.

My brother had been feeding him some health foods and milk. Is there really any special diet that would be good for him? Is it usual for dogs his age to have this condition?

L. K.

Answer:
As far as I am aware, there is no special diet recommended for an epileptic dog. I would recommend a well-balanced diet, preferably a commercial dog food, for the animal.

Dietary imbalances can result from trying to feed dogs "people food". Some blood lines of dogs tend to show inherited forms of epilepsy and I have seen several labradors with the problem at 3 to 4 years of age.

The dog should be examined by your veterinarian. He or she may prescribe an anti-convulsive medication that should reduce or eliminate the seizures.

Question:
My father is getting over a very serious illness and is recuperating at our home. He is able to get around by himself in a limited way.

Because we must leave him alone for several hours during the day, he complains about being lonely. I thought it would be a good idea to get him a pet for companionship. What do you think of this idea? What would be preferable — a cat or dog? If we get him a dog, what size should it be?

H. J. M.

Answer:
A pet has shown to have tremendous psychological benefits to a person confined to a house recuperating from illness or injury. It seems that having to be concerned about another being other than themselves is often very helpful.

Dogs are especially good since they give such devotion to their masters. The dog should be small — 15 or 20 pounds.

I would suggest a miniature poodle or schnauzer or another breed about the same size. These are large enough to be enjoyable and take out on walks but not so large as to be strong enough to injure your father.

Also, they have pleasing personalities and normally are kept trimmed so you don't have long hair associated with skin and flea problems.

Tony, Chris, Jim back at Vince's

A winning team is back together again at VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant, where owner NINA LICATA announces that son TONY LICATA is now back as manager and longtime associate CHRIS TASSOS is back as operations manager. LINO CONTE is the popular day manager. Also, patrons of the adjoining Fresh Fish Depot, where fresh fish and other seafood as well as French bread, wines, condiments and related items are available for take home, are also happy to learn that popular counterman JIMMY is back on deck, hale and hearty and radiating good cheer, after recent serious surgery.

One way to escape the winter weather without going anywhere is to enjoy luncheon, dinner or Sunday Ramos Fizz Brunch at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE in San Francisco. It's a beautiful garden in full bloom, a lush tropical jungle where it's springtime the year 'round.

Dinner guests at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in the heart of San Francisco's glittering Geary Street Theater row, were delighted the other night when the cast of the hit stage show, "A Chorus Line," stopped by for a late supper following their performance at the nearby Golden Gate Theater.

BANQUET SPECIALIST

Helping to make your party, reception or meeting a success is the newly appointed assistant banquet manager of the SAN FRANCISCO AIRPORT HILTON, Patrizio Pizzirani, who brings with him years of experience in food service. Facilities for banquets of all sizes.

Theatergoers dine at Phil Lehr's

If you're planning to see the hit stage show, "A Chorus Line" at the Golden Gate Theater in San Francisco, PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce Steaks, close by on the lower level of the Hilton Tower, is a convenient place for dining before or after the show. The setting is elegant, the service flawless and the steaks are always perfectly prepared.

When looking for an elegant restaurant in a spectacular setting for anything from an intimate dinner for two to entertaining friends or celebrating a special occasion, a great choice would be THE MOONRAKER, located surside in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Gourmet continental cuisine is served in sophisticated surroundings. And if it's a little nightlife you want after dining, wander over to NICKS for dancing any evening, Wednesday through Sunday, to the sounds of the JIMMY PAYER group, with MARY ANN HAY on vocals. Also in this three-way restaurant combination, owned/operated by the famed GUST family, is CAPTAIN CHARLES, featuring gourmet seafood and Polynesian dishes.

Take out service is always available at LA PINATA, an authentic Mexican restaurant in downtown Burlingame. Personal chef CHRIS VLASSIS offers 15 combination plates, plus 15 super specials guaranteed to bring you back again and again. Open Mondays through Saturdays from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sundays.

Romano's pasta stretches far

If all the spaghetti served at ROMANO'S Italian restaurant in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, were laid end to end, there's no telling how far it might reach. But it would be an interesting conjecture, as over many years this friendly haven for pasta lovers has probably satisfied more customers with Italian and seafood specialties than anybody has ever recorded. Open every day, seven days a week, from 4 p.m. Full bar, also.

Like to break into "show biz," or just try out some of your own material on a live audience, or enjoy laughing to the jokes of others? Then take the easy jaunt over to Half Moon Bay, where THE CYPRESS HOUSE features a Saturday night Amateur Comedy Show in the lounge which is a full evening of fun.

Hospitable facilities and fine cuisine are ample reward for dining at JIM SNIADACKI'S SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S restaurant in Redwood City. Dinners only are served. Many of the best foreign vintages as well as bottlings from California's top vintners are stocked.

A touch of class is added to the subdued elegance of the DAL BAFFO European restaurant in downtown Menlo Park when European society pianist HANK NEMETH plays light classical and show tunes on the grand piano, Wednesday through Saturday evenings, in the cocktail lounge. The melodies are wafted over to the nearby dining room to provide an unobtrusive background for gourmet dining. Cuisine is created by the equally talented touch of owner/chef VINCENZO LO GRASSO.

In spite of rising costs in all directions, the popular Wednesday night "Family-style" dinners at TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT German and continental restaurant in Moss Beach will continue to be offered at only $4.29 (complete). Owner/chef TILLIE SCHOLTZ says she will keep it that way as long as possible. Dinners include tureen of soup, salad, entree with rice and vegetables, glass of wine and dessert. Entrees are different each week, usually with a choice of two or three.

Review turns tables

The scene in the Daly City Civic Center council chamber Thursday night resembled a courtroom battle rather than a public hearing of Daly City's Local Coastal Program.

The meeting was intended for the first review of the city's plan for coastal protection by the Central Coastal Regional Commission. But the commissioners were prevented from an in-depth examination of the Local Coastal Program when the status of vacant Olympia School was brought to their attention.

Olympia School is included in the coastal zone area which extends into the Westlake district around Manor Drive south of the tip of Lake Merced.

The school is included in the Local Coastal Plan as an open space area.

The Local Coastal Program which was recently approved by the General Plan Advisory Committee, the Planning Commission and the City Council, now must be approved by the Regional Coastal Commission before receiving final approval by the state commission.

The LCP was mandated by the California Coastal Act of 1976 for all coastal cities and counties as the means to return coastal protection and development to local governments.

TO ACADEMY

Sergeant Thomas G. Reese leaves for an 11-week tour of training at the F.B.I. National Academy, Quantico, Va., March 30. Chief David A. Hansen announced. Reese will attend the 121st National Academy Class. He will be the ninth member of the Daly City Police Department to attend. The chief, Assistant Chief Richard Sims, Captains Edward Guzman and Roger Ausfin and Lieutenants James Doran, Steven Lowe and Thomas Culley are Academy graduates. Reese entered the Daly City Police Department in March of 1965; he was promoted to sergeant in January of 1970.

Queen entries open

Entries are now open for young ladies interested in reigning as queen of the 1980 Junior Grand National Livestock Exposition, March 28-April 1, at the San Francisco Cow Palace.

Entry deadline is Feb. 15.

Miss Junior Grand National will reign for the duration of the 34th annual show, considered to be the country's largest youth-oriented livestock exposition.

She will preside during livestock judgments, auctions, an awards banquet, and will be introduced to thousands of spectators at the California High School Rodeo Team Championships at the Cow Palace.

Contestants will be judged on poise, personality, and livestock achievements. Girls must be livestock exhibitors at the 1980 Junior Grand National and be between the ages of 15-19. Judging will take place Saturday, Feb. 23 at the Cow Palace.

In addition to the livestock show, the Junior Grand National features a junior rodeo (March 29-30) and junior horse show (April 3-9). For more information—either on the queen contest or any of the junior shows—contact the Cow Palace, P.O. Box 34206, San Francisco, 94134, (415) 584-2480.

Delivery of airport study due

The final report of a two-year study of San Francisco International Airport's problems is to be delivered Monday to study director Walter Gilfillan.

Dr. Gilfillan represents the two-county Joint Land Use Study Board, including representatives of San Francisco and San Mateo counties.

During the past two years, nearly every airport-oriented group in San Mateo County, and some from other counties, have watched or taken part in the review of problems and proposed solutions.

Once the LCP is approved, Daly City will hear all building permits and the state will serve as an appeals board for builders declined at the city level.

This week's commission hearing was the first attempt to find whether the Daly City LCP conforms to the 1976 Coastal Act.

But at Thursday's meeting, little review of the LCP's adequacy occurred once the subject of Olympia School was raised.

Jack Rogers, the attorney handling the Jefferson Elementary School District's inverse condemnation lawsuit against the city of Daly City in a battle over a 17,000-square-foot portion of the vacant school site, asked the commission to delete the school from the coastal zone.

The city filed a condemnation suit for the 17,000 square feet of playground area in December, seeking the land for a neighborhood park.

But the district filed its inverse condemnation suit early this week for $885,000 plus damages, charging that the city's action had destroyed the marketability of the site. The $885,000 is the appraised value of the three-acre site. Olympia, smallest of the JESD's schools, was closed after the 1978-79 school year because of declining enrollment in the district.

Rogers told the commissioners that by approving the LCP with the Olympia site included, the commission would be made party in the district suit.

"Delete the Olympia School site so that the city of Daly City and the Jefferson Elementary School District can carry on their differences alone," he said.

He went on, "There is nothing that can be done with this property now."

He claimed that it was "capricious and arbitrary" for the city to include the Olympia site in its open space zoning.

City Attorney Albert Polonsky presented the city's case by pointing out that the school was not zoned for open space and did not carry any zoning designation.

Student appears in skiing film

By ROSIE TEJADA and KAREN WONG

Ricardo Salinas, who graduated from Jefferson High School in 1978, participated in a documentary film on skiing called "Inside Skiing."

The film was shown at schools, including Jefferson, throughout the country.

Salinas was one of the 10 participants in the film to be chosen by the film's producers from a field of 100 California students interviewed.

Salinas spent five days in the Mammoth Mountain area learning the basics of skiing.

The viewing of the film was arranged by Rick Trow Productions, a public relations group that does work throughout the country.

The film was sponsored by Vester ski shops of Daly City.

Jefferson Student Body President Kimberle Johnson drew out the winning names at the Christmas rally for the Student Store raffle. Winner of the two big candy canes was Mark Alva.

Sales and merchandising teacher Evelyn Mars, who also runs the Trading Post, said that the store may not have made too much money, but the raffle was fun.

Art Club members secretly drew out winners for the Turkey Raffle Dec. 19. The lucky people were R. Shearer of Daly City and students Judy Riegle, Sherry Frazier and Julie Padreddi.

Prizes given were a $20 gift certificate, a $5 gift certificate, and the top prize of a three pound ham. (Where was the turkey?)

The Art Club made approximately $120 on this event. The club now is in the process of selling candy.

THE ULTIMATE EXCUSE

Students have been known to return to school with some very interesting excuses to account for absences.

A student of math teacher Jim Conn appeared in his class on Jan. 9 after an absence dating back to Dec. 4, 1979.

"Where have you been?" asked Conn.

"I've been snowed in at Lake Tahoe," answered the student.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.
Knowing your onions — and your garlic — can really help when making any number of dishes, and particularly this fragrant French provincial recipe.
Home economists at the American Spice Trade Association developed this easy translation of Chicken Provencale.
It's simplified by the use of onion and garlic in dehydrated form — to save last minute shopping, peeling, slicing, chopping and even a few tears.
For easy Chicken Provencale you don't have to stand in line at the market on the way home from work — especially if you have cut-up chicken in the freezer.
Just brown the pieces in a little olive oil, add a can of whole tomatoes, onion and garlic powders, black pepper, basil and a few anchovy fillets.
Cover and simmer until tender, then add some pitted black olives and a spoonful of white wine. C'est tout! Do serve with crusty bread or rice to soak up those savory juices, and add a simple salad.

EASY CHICKEN PROVENCALE
2 tablespoons olive oil
3 pounds chicken parts
1 can (16 ounces) whole tomatoes, broken up
1 1/2 teaspoons basil leaves, crushed
1 1/2 teaspoons onion powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
Dash ground black pepper
4 anchovy fillets, diced (optional)
1 tablespoon white wine
1/2 cup sliced black olives
In a large skillet heat the two tablespoons oil until hot. Add the chicken parts; brown well on all sides. Drain off drippings.
In a medium bowl combine the pound tomatoes, broken up, one and one-half teaspoons each crushed basil and onion powder, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon garlic powder and dash of black pepper. Mix well and pour over chicken in skillet.
Add the four anchovy fillets, diced. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer, covered, until chicken is tender, about 45 minutes. Add the one tablespoon wine and half cup sliced black olives, simmer until hot, about 2 minutes.
YIELD: 4 portions
NOTE: When testing the recipe I didn't use the anchovies and the dish was delicious. So if you and your family love anchovies, use them. If not, skip them. It's still a tasty dinner.

THE DIET CORNER By ELISE GENDAR

Ya gotta have heart... And guts, but not fat, to succeed in this world.
Scream, protest, bite, kick and claw though fatties may — the cold, hard facts stack against 'em. Something up there just doesn't love a fat person.
Irrational and prejudiced though this dislike may appear in the eyes of the fatter, the dislike manifests itself in all sorts of unpleasant ways.
It pops up in the process of job-hunting. Other things being equal — the fat person with good skills is turned down in favor of the skinny person with good skills.
Sometimes there's even less equality and the skinny person without skills gets the job as, for example, a San Francisco mother-and-daughter making the rounds of the employment agencies. Mother was a skilled machine operator, daughter had never done a lick of work. Mother was fat, daughter slim. Daughter is now supporting mother.
Fat prejudice rears its ugly head in other places. Like the college application scene, the marriage venture, and even when it comes to appellations. We all know fat slob, but how many skinny slob do you know?
Fight prejudice! Start at home by planning, cooking and eating slim. Here's a hot toddy, diet style to toast your new determination.
HOT TOMATO JUICE WITH FLOATERS
1 cup tomato juice
1/2 tsp. grated onion
1/2 tsp. low-calorie salad dressing
1 cup beef consommé
1/2 tsp. horseradish
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
lemon slices
Combine ingredients, except lemon slices, in saucepan. Heat to boiling. Serve in mugs with lemon slices floating on top.
Count up the successful fat people you've read about and then total up the number of skinny successes. Revelation! Scan pictures of the fat ones now and pictures as they were when they were younger and thinner! Like Orson Welles, Shelley Winters, and Roz Russell. Age is not the detractor — it's the fat. Joan Crawford slinks slimly across the stage, and people forget she's a grandma.
You may see a skinny you peering back at you from the mirror. No one else peers into that glass with your eyes. What they see is what they react to. Don't be surprised, be thin!

Important Note Regarding Prices

The prices shown in the right hand column on each page of this catalog are for reference only, and no representation is made to the effect that any of these prices is the usual or ordinary price at which a particular item is sold, or our present or former selling price. These reference prices are provided to you as a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our catalog distribution area. They are often useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer.

Most of the prices shown in the right hand column are manufacturer's suggested retail prices supplied to Consumers Distributing. Where manufacturers do not supply suggested retail prices, Consumers Distributing has applied to its cost mark-up percentages based on trade customs (which commonly vary with respect to various types of items) to arrive at a price which it considers to be in accordance with customary trade practices. In any event, these prices may vary in different trading areas depending on shipping and other costs and circumstances which might affect such a price.

No user of this catalog should assume that a savings will be effected or realized in an amount equal to the difference between the figures in the left hand column and the Consumers Distributing price. In some cases, other retailers may be selling similar goods at less than Consumers Distributing prices, but are not aware of existing goods which are sold at these prices, or by reason of their various buying practices.

All prices are subject to change without notice due to manufacturer's price changes. Price changes in material or other factors may result in changes of cost, and the prices in this catalog are approximate.

Prices and terms are the responsibility of Consumers Distributing. We are not responsible for transportation and insurance charges.

If you are interested in any of the items shown in this catalog, please call or write to the nearest office of Consumers Distributing, Inc. for more information.
